Federal Force Retreated, Leaving Plains Covered With Dead and Dying. Another Battle at Del Oro

AT THE FEDERAL FRONT, CONEJOS, Mex., May 12.—Twelve hours of brisk fighting on the desert plains, 300 miles south of the American border between the force of 5,000 rebels under General Orozco and an equally strong body of federals under General Huerta, resulted today in a decided advantage to the government.

The fighting began at daybreak and at nightfall the sandy mesa between here and Yermo, 14 miles north, where the insurgents were gradually forced back, was covered with dead and wounded.

Nearly 500 are believed to have been killed and wounded on both sides. A courier brought the information that General Trucey Aubert, the federal commander, had been shot in the leg. The rebels abandoned 10 cannon and much ammunition in their retreat.

General Joaquín Telles, who had been stationed in the rear of Huerta's vanguard, was at noon sent around to the eastward to flank the rebels and cut off their retreat. Tonight federal headquarters claim the rebels are completely surrounded and that the second day of fighting will prove equally decisive.

Conejos, on yesterday, occupied by the vanguard of the rebels, was riddled with bullets when the federals galloped into it at sunset. Over the foothills to the north the insurgents could be seen retreating.

General Huerta has been receiving many telegrams of congratulations on the outcome of the day's fighting. Should the advantage gained today be followed by equal success tomorrow, the federal leaders are confident it will mean the annihilation of the insurgent army.

Rebels Will Make Last Stand.

General Huerta considers it probable, however, that the rebels will make their last stand at Escalón, their central base, 14 miles to the north, where they have built fortifications and trenches in the last fortnight.

It was the steady artillery fire of the government troops that dislodged the enemy. The sun beat fiercely on the plains, but the air was clear. The aim of the federal gunners was true. They began to shell the rebel positions at daybreak. For a time the insurgents fired in volleys and seven federal officers were wounded. Only a few hours, however, they withstood the three cannonading and began to evacuate their positions. General Telles arrived at nightfall with a detachment of 1,500 men in the valley behind Conejos, where the vanguard of rebels gathered.

It seems likely tonight that unless the rebels continue to fight desperately, a large number of prisoners will be taken when dawn breaks tomorrow.

Federals Well Equipped.

As they retreated the rebels destroyed a number of bridges but the federals are equipped with pontons and will not be seriously affected by the hindrance.

Enthusiasm in the federal camp is intense. In fact word reached Conejos that the city of Torreón is celebrating the victory with street parades and music.

General Huerta talked enthusiastically of the fight. "After 12 hours of fighting today," he said, "my troops took the position of the rebels by storm. The artillery was superb. My forces, filled with enthusiasm, have once more shown the power of the government, and they covered themselves with glory."

We captured from the enemy 10 cannon and wagons with many hand bombs of dynamite. The enemy retreated in precipitate flight towards the north where part of my men executed violently a movement which completely annihilated them.

A large number of early burned positions and a train with 20 cars of provisions was destroyed. Several bridges and five bridges are still on fire.

Reinforcements Could Not Detrain.

Three trains of reinforcements arrived for the rebels during the fight, but the heavy artillery fire from our

FEDERAL ARMY HAS SUPERIOR ARTILLERY

General Orozco Admits Defeat and Orders All Troops to Mobilize at Rellano

AT GENERAL OROZCO'S HEADQUARTERS, RELLANO, Mex., May 12.—General Orozco tonight admitted that his army had been defeated at Conejos, and has sent a general order to all insurgent troops to mobilize at Rellano. He blames his defeat on the superior artillery of the federal army. General Campa and Artigues, who were sent around to the east to flank the federals, have been reported missing. The rebels abandoned their four positions at 3 o'clock.

General Orozco today transferred his headquarters from Escalón, Mex., where he has been for the last fortnight, to Rellano, 17 miles north. This retreat, he claims, as well as that of his vanguard today, was done in order to place his men in better positions for a final stand. The rebels fought bravely all day. Losses have not yet been announced here.

It was at Rellano, recently, that the federals were severely defeated, and Gen. Gonzalez Salas committed suicide. Indications are that the vicinity of Rellano, with which Orozco is familiar, may again be a battle ground.

Gen. Huerta Praises Heroism of Troops

MEXICO CITY, May 12.—Although Gen. Trucey Aubert's column was demoralized, and the general wounded, in today's fighting south of Conejos, the federal commander, General Huerta, reported to President Madero tonight that the result of the first battle of moment with the main body of Orozco's army was a decided victory for the government forces.

Orozco was in personal command of his troops, according to information. The battle began soon after 8 o'clock this morning. General Telles leading the central column with his retreat covered by artillery under Gen. Col. Rubio Navarrete.

At 8 o'clock, General Huerta communicated by telegraph to President Madero that his forces had captured 10 cannon from the rebels, and reported casualties numbering 400. The report failed to indicate what proportion of these were rebels. At that hour many federal wounded were being brought into camp. Among them was the commander of federal cavalry.

A short time before an order had been given for a general advance, but this was countermanded upon receipt of news that the brigade of General Aubert, guarding the right of the federal position, had been cut to pieces by the rebel cavalry.

General Huerta said the conduct of his men was heroic, and that there was the best possible cooperation between the divisions of his army. A later report said a cavalry attack by the federals had forced the rebels from their positions.

Four More Bodies Recovered at Sea

HALIFAX, N. S., May 12.—Wireless messages from the steamer Montserrat, which was dispatched from here last week to search the sea for victims of the Titanic, reports the recovery of four bodies. Three of these were identified as follows: Harold Reynolds, stowage passenger; C. Smith, a steward; A. Smith, an about 10 years old. One body, that of a sailor, was unidentified and buried at sea.

JACOB M'GAVOCK DICKINSON.

of Tennessee, who resigned as President Taft's secretary of war just before preparations were made for bringing the government's suit to dissolve the United States Steel corporation as a trust and combination in restraint of trade. Mr. Dickinson is now in charge of the government local forces in New York where the suit is being prosecuted.

MAJ. BUTT CARRIED NO OFFICIAL NOTE TO POPE

Story Circulated, Says President, in an Attempt to Arouse Religious Prejudice Against Him

WASHINGTON, May 12.—At the White house tonight, a personal statement by President Taft was given out, categorically denying that Maj. Archie Butt, the president's military aide, who was lost on the Titanic, had gone to Rome on any mission whatever from the president to the Vatican. President Taft's signed statement in part follows:

"Among the insidious methods of attack pursued by some agitators is the attempt to arouse religious prejudice against me by claiming that I am in some manner guilty of favoring the Roman Catholic church. It has been my constant purpose, first as the governor of the Philippines, second as secretary of war, and third, as president, to encourage every church as far as possible where this does not involve injurious distinctions and does not depart from the rules which separate our state from official religions of all churches."

"In 1902 I visited Rome and conferred with Pope Leo XIII in an attempt to settle the Philippine controversy, which had arisen in the Philippines while I was governor general, and after a time I succeeded in doing so. When, last March, my aide, Maj. Butt, set out on a trip solely for his health, and proposed to visit Rome, he asked me for a letter of introduction to the present pope, that he might have the privilege of an audience, and I gave him such a letter."

"The letter contained nothing but a statement of who Maj. Butt was, and contained no reference to the recent appointment of American cardinals and no recommendation or reference to the Catholic church or any matter relating to it."

"The evidence that there is a conspiracy for the purpose of arousing religious prejudice against me is shown by the fact that at the instance of someone unknown to me, it was reported in a great many newspapers that I had appointed apostolic delegate by wireless to the incoming steamer which was bearing him to New York. No such message was sent by me nor any by my authority."

4 DROWN IN ATTEMPT TO 'SHOOT' BIG DAM

FOUN FALLS, S. D., May 12.—A daring attempt to "shoot" the flooded dam in the Big Sioux river here, today, resulted in the drowning of four men.

Matt Vest and Guy Beck passed over the dam successfully in their boat. William Dahl and John Meehan, in another boat were caught in the whirlpool current, and their boat capsized. The first boat returned to rescue the men in the water, dragging Meehan aboard. In an effort to help Dahl the boat was whirled about in the current and capsized, all four sinking immediately.

Beck was recently discharged from the United States navy after serving an enlistment in the Pacific fleet and held a United States navy gold medal for expert swimming. He also held a Carnegie medal for heroic rescue of a drowning sailor two years ago.

ARMY OFFICERS MAKE TESTS OF AEROPLANES

STRASSBURG, May 12.—Eight officers and one civilian in aeroplanes and each carrying a passenger, started today on a reliability flight. A strong head wind hampered the aviators. Lieutenant Worth was injured severely while making a forced landing. He is suffering from concussion of the brain. His passenger was not hurt. The civilian, who started fifth, was first to reach Metz, the objective point. The route from Metz by way of Mayence, Darmstadt, Frankfurt, Karlsruhe and Freiburg over the Black Forest at Constance. It is expected the tests will prove valuable for the cause of army aviation.

METHODISTS FAVOR DIOCESAN SYSTEM?

Conference Is Expected to Take Action on Plan at Meeting Today

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 12.—What is considered by many Methodists the first step toward a diocesan system in the church, is embodied in the first report of the Episcopate committee of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which probably will be presented tomorrow. The report requests that the bishops of the church group the conferences of the church into dioceses, and appoint to the dioceses who have official residences in those dioceses charge of the conferences there in continuously for one quadriennium.

According to the report, the resident bishop shall have charge of all conferences contiguous to his residence except when a bishop comes to preside at an annual conference; the latter will have charge of the conference for one month before and one month after the session, when the conference automatically reverts to the resident bishop.

The committee on temporal economy also probably will recommend the establishment of a commission, consisting of four bishops, three ministers and eight laymen, to handle all funds ordinarily turned in to the boards. The commission also will arrange the apportionment and will have in charge the division of funds to the church boards when collected, thus excluding the boards from arranging for their own finances.

This afternoon, which was given over to the anniversary of the board of Sunday schools, addresses were made by Bishop William Fraser McDowell of Chicago, president of the board; Dr. Edgar Rickes, New York, assistant secretary; and Dr. David G. Downey, New York, corresponding secretary of the board.

CROSSING TITANIC? GRAVE SHE TOSSES FLOWERS INTO SEA

NEW YORK, May 12.—Standing on the bridge of the Germanic in mid-ocean last Thursday evening, Mrs. J. H. Loring of New York and London, scattered flowers on the waters of the Atlantic in memory of her husband, who lost his life on the Titanic.

When the Germanic, which reached New York today, arrived in latitude 41° and longitude 34° W., the nearest position to where the Titanic sank, Mrs. Loring, attired in deep mourning, was escorted to the bridge by Captain Brown. Five hundred cabin passengers stood on the decks as Mrs. Loring scattered the flowers on the sea. Mrs. Loring, with hands bowed and uncovered while some of the women passengers, touched by the wife's devotion, wept.

Mrs. Loring, decided to make the trip across the Atlantic to pay a last tribute to the memory of her husband.

DEPUTIES DECEYED AND TWO ARE ASSASSINATED

GAINESVILLE, Fla., May 12.—Shirley Slughter and Deputy Sheriff White of Archer Flats were deceived to a lonely spot near here this morning and assassinated.

Shortly after midnight Slughter received a message regarding a gambling game among negroes on the outskirts of the town. He deputized White and J. A. Manning and started for the scene. Everything seemed to be quiet, but when the officers started to return, they were greeted with a volley of shots.

Slughter and White fell at the first fire. Both were dead when they arrived. Manning also fell with a wound in the abdomen. He regained death and was the negro assailants started away, shot Cain Perry, one of the number, and at the point of a pistol, captured three negroes, who were alleged to have been implicated in the shooting.

President Taft Wires California in Lengthy Plea for Votes in Primary

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Unable to cross the continent to campaign in California, President Taft sent by telegraph to the Republicans of that state his arguments for support in the presidential primary election Tuesday.

The president's telegram was sent to Col. Charles M. Hammond, manager of the Taft forces in San Francisco, and a brother-in-law of Colonel Roosevelt. It also was sent to P. A. Stanton, the Taft manager at Los Angeles. President Taft reviewed the achievements of his administration and asserted that Colonel Roosevelt was not giving him a square deal, but was appealing to class hatred and forcing sham issues. The telegram, in full, follows:

"On the eve of your presidential primary in California, I venture to appeal to the Republican men and women who exercise the franchise to consider fairly and well the legislative and executive achievements of my administration, and especially those that have affected California, and say whether they do not deserve approval by the people of California."

COL. ROOSEVELT "NOT EXCITED"

SPEAKS CONFIDENTLY OF FINAL OUTCOME

Declares Claims Made for Taft Have Dropped From About 400 to 75

CLEVELAND, N. Y., May 12.—President Roosevelt spoke confidently today of the outcome of his presidential campaign. He said he would make no predictions as to the result of the Chicago convention, but that he felt encouraged by recent events.

"You would not have believed it at the beginning," said Colonel Roosevelt, "and you may not believe it now, but one great advantage I had to start with was that I was dragged into this fight, and so far as I personally am concerned, I am not excited about it one way or the other."

"In 1904 I wanted to win for myself, I wanted it to round out my career. This time I loathed getting into the fight."

Colonel Roosevelt spoke of the delegates that he gained recently, laying emphasis on the result of the primaries in Minnesota last week. "I believe the victory in Minnesota is complete," he said, "and that we will have the entire delegation of the state."

A month ago, Colonel Roosevelt said, Congressman McKinley, campaign manager for President Taft, claimed that the president would be renominated by 400 majorities, but now had reduced his estimate to a majority of 75.

TRANSPORT BUFORD PICKS UP REFUGEES

MAZATLAN, Sinaloa, Mexico, May 12.—Via Tancon, Ariz., May 12.—The United States transport Buford arrived today with 16 refugees from Topolobampo and 16 from Altamira and Culiacan. At Altamira the Buford anchored 15 miles out, the refugees being transferred by the steamer Luella. The refugees from Culiacan practically all are destitute, their property and homes being looted, or destroyed in recent rebel raids.

The Buford anchored the miles off this port, 71 adults and 20 children being taken aboard. Of the 20 American citizens, more than 17 had been born in Mexico. The transfer of the refugees was witnessed by thousands of Mexicans and the few Americans who remained in Mazatlan.

Late today Captain Ely and American Consul Mager made an official call on Colonel Mazon, commander of the federal forces. Tonight the American consul, Colonel Mazon, and other Mexican officers dined aboard the Buford.

The Buford is scheduled to leave Monday morning for San Blas, Tepic, Manzanillo, Acapulco, and probably other ports. Arrivals received here indicate that few, if any, refugees will be found south of Mazatlan. Many Americans from that section have gone east by rail to Vera Cruz and sailed for the United States.

"DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED," PAL KILLED

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 12.—With a revolver he did not know was loaded, Milton Nathan, a jockey, 16 years old, shot and killed his friend, Madison McDougall, another jockey, 15 years old, at Churchill Downs today. McDougall, after losing the right eye, died soon after being taken to a hospital.

The dead boy was the son of George McDougall, a wealthy Philadelphia philanthropist, who with his wife is attending the races here. Nathan is the son of a poor man, a native of New York City. Young Nathan gave himself up to the police.

JUSTICE CAMPBELL BACK

DENVER, May 12.—Justice John Campbell of the Colorado supreme court, returned today from California, where he has been for nearly a year for his health. He expects to take his place on the bench tomorrow.

WYOMING CONVENTIONS WILL BE HELD TODAY

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 12.—Six delegates-at-large to their respective national conventions, also a national committee man, the Wyoming Republican and Democratic state conventions will be held here tomorrow. No presidential candidate has enough instructed delegates to control either convention. Indications are that Taft will be endorsed by the Republicans, while a fight between Wilson and Clark adherents is probable among the Democrats.

Based on the vote at the last congressional election, the voting strength of the Republican convention is 102, while that of the Democrats is 85.

Nine of the Republican delegates are instructed for Colonel Roosevelt, four are instructed not to vote for Taft. The remaining 110 are uninstructed, but come with a "preference" for Taft.

But nine of the Democratic delegates are instructed. Five of these are for Speaker Clark and four for Gov. Woodrow Wilson. Twenty-two are favorable toward Clark and the remaining 57 are uninstructed. John B. Osborne of Carbon county and George R. Tilton of Evanston county, national committee men of the Democratic and Republican parties, respectively, probably will be selected without opposition. Wyoming's presidential preference primary law, enacted at the last session of the legislature, does not become effective until August 20. Since the delegates to the conventions were chosen by county committees, no contest of seats is expected in either convention.

TAFT WILL ARRIVE TODAY

Roosevelt Starts Tomorrow With First of Series of 80 Speeches

COLUMBUS, O., May 12.—From tomorrow morning until primary election day, May 21, there is scarcely a more important station in this state so important that it does not expect to entertain at least one presidential candidate.

President Taft, Colonel Roosevelt, Governor Harmon and Senator Pollock will tour the state, while United States senators, cabinet members and department heads are to speak where limited train facilities and the inability of the candidate to be more than one place at one time will prevent the appearance of the presidential candidates.

President Taft will be the first to arrive. He will finish his campaign at Marietta tomorrow and will make more than a dozen speeches during the day. Colonel Roosevelt will arrive Tuesday and begin his speaking tour. His itinerary for the next few days where the president speaks will be made public. Altogether, Colonel Roosevelt will make more than 80 speeches. The more important speeches will be made at Canton, Dayton, Columbus and Cleveland.

Governor Harmon will begin his trip at Wooster Wednesday night. He will cover many of the points already visited by Colonel Bryan in his anti-Harmon trip, and has announced that he will speak on the charges made by the Nebraska that friends of the governor sought unduly to influence Bryan, pledged delegates in 1908.

Secretary Nagel, in his state, it is reported he will make a speech for Taft at Gullfords Saturday, three days before the primaries.

A victory in the presidential preference vote sought particularly by the Democrats, would carry the six delegates-at-large to the national convention, according to the call of the state committee.

Republicans will vote for the district candidates for delegate. The delegates-at-large will be named by the state convention here Sunday and at 4 o'clock Tuesday and Wednesday are in the field.

Although anti-Harmon, Bryan has announced that Colonel Bryan, who already has made two speeches before the primaries, will not be in the place to be chosen.

Senator La Follette will speak in his northern counties and according to the present plans will make only a brief visit.

WYOMING CONVENTIONS WILL BE HELD TODAY

Against which there was evidence of his violating the Sherman law, and this included the Steel trust and the Harvester trust, which was treated as a good trust under Mr. Roosevelt and entitled to immunity after a threat by Mr. George W. Perkins and the trustees of the Harvester trust to bring about a fight by them with the administration. Mr. Perkins is now one of the chief contributors to Mr. Roosevelt's political fund.

"The last important matter that I have recently reported to congress, which has passed the senate and is now pending in the house of representatives, is the workmen's compensation bill, which changes altogether the policy of the law with reference to the liability of the employer to the employee on interstate commerce, and gives an insurance for every employee against the dangers of his employment by requiring the employer to indemnify the employee against injury, and to employ a fund not brought about by his will and voluntary act, and fixes a reasonable compensation, graduated according to regular tables and proportioned to the extent of the injury and the earning capacity of the employee injured.

"In the opposition which Mr. Roosevelt is now making to this administration he is now giving me a square deal, as I have shown by undoubted record proof. He is appealing to class hatred and forcing class issues in such a way that his success would be a real detriment to the public interest, and a dangerous departure from a wise tradition which he himself has recognized, that limits a citizen to two terms in the presidency."

MONTANA CONVENTION MAY 16
BUTTE, Mont., May 12.—The Montana state Republican convention at Livingston, May 16, to name delegates to the Republican convention at Chicago, will be controlled by the Taft forces by a majority of about 200, based upon returns from all of Montana's 42 counties but six, which it all were carried by Roosevelt. The Taft forces shake the strength of the Taft forces. Roosevelt is reasonably sure of carrying three of these counties, which will give him a convention strength of about 323, as compared with 434 for Taft.

STORM CAUSES TWO DEATHS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, May 12.—A severe rain and windstorm which swept over Chicago Saturday night and today indirectly caused the deaths of two men and the injury of several others.

Patrick Murray, 53 years old, and an unidentified man of about 24, were run down by street cars while blinded by the rain. Both died shortly after they had been struck. Shortly after trains were struck by automobiles or street cars and injured.

The wind, which reached a velocity of 44 miles an hour, uprooted trees, blew down many chimneys and a lot of boats from their moorings along the lake shore.

Captain Carl and the crew of the life saving station went to the aid of the lumber schooner "Quickstep," which signaled for help off the mouth of the river during the afternoon.

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind., May 12.—A heavy wind and rainstorm, sweeping down the lake, piled tons of water into this city today and did much damage. Water undermined Aldis avenue, the lake front street, swept away pillars, broke water mains and gas pipes and wrecked several residences.

Firemen, falling in efforts to erect breakwaters, reported that the Smith Bay hotel probably would be wrecked before tomorrow.

FURTHER INQUIRY INTO JUDGE ARCHBALD'S CASE

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Investigation into charges against Judge Robert W. Archbald of the commerce court, by the judiciary committee of the house, will be prolonged. The committee has determined to summon many more witnesses because the inquiry has developed circumstances not mentioned in the original charges.

A deputy sergeant-at-arms of the house today departed for Scranton and other places to serve subpoenas on witnesses whose names were not disclosed. It is the determination of the committee to call W. A. May, superintendent of the Erie railroad's coal properties, who gave to E. J. Williams and Judge Archbald an option on the Katskill coal bank, and to inquire into the allegation that Judge Archbald collected an option on that property, March 31, 1911, several months before he sent Williams to May with a letter of introduction and finally procured the option.

When May was asked, Saturday, for the letter of introduction that Williams had brought to him from Judge Archbald, he produced a letter, the existence of which was not known to the attorney general of the committee. It was dated March 31, and was not in the letter which the committee asked for. In that letter the judge had asked if the Katskill coal property was for sale, and if so, what price could the company fix on it. May turned over to the committee other correspondence that is not in the original record.

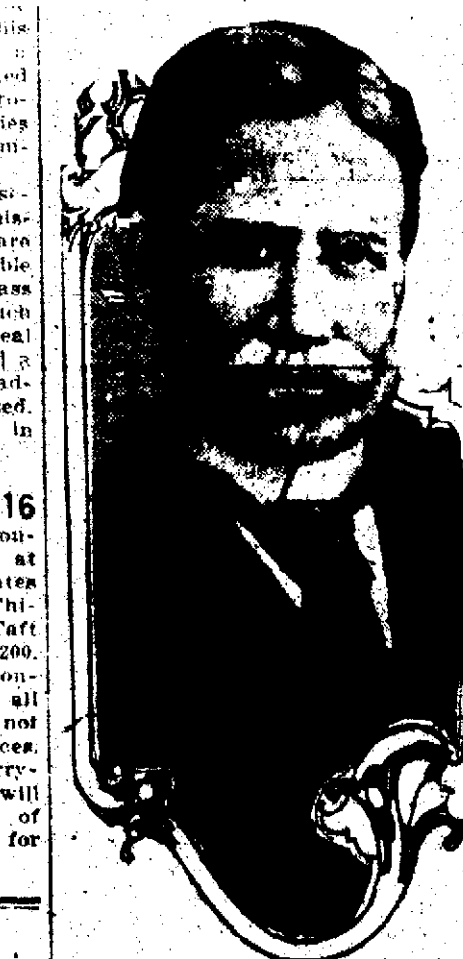

Among new witnesses summoned is G. P. Reynolds, general counsel and first vice-president of the Erie railroad. According to Edward J. Williams, Judge Archbald sought Reynolds' influence in negotiations for the Katskill coal bank option, after Captain May had declined to give the option.

THIEVES GET $10,000 IN DENVER ROBBERY

DENVER, May 12.—Several thousand dollars worth of diamonds and watches were taken today from the jewelry store of George Reinhardt in this city by robbers after they had broken into the premises through the rear of an adjoining pool room. The safe in which the plunder was contained was broken open and wrecked. A search by detectives for three men whom nearby residents declared they saw carrying sacks and acting suspiciously in the vicinity of the jewelry store shortly after the robbery was discovered, proved futile. Reinhardt estimates his loss at $10,000.

RUSSIAN SOLDIERS ARE INJURED IN MANEUVERS

ST. PETERSBURG, May 12.—A remarkable order of the day has been issued by the minister of war, announcing that 42 infantrymen were wounded by shell fire in the recent maneuvers. The minister adds the curious statement: "These men were in advance of the guns."

FEUDISTS FIGHT AND TWO ARE SHOT DOWN

JELICO, Ky., May 12.—Fifteen minutes of battle and badm, following an attempt of Marshal Tom Bowlin to arrest a promiscuous shooter today, resulted in the death of the marshal's wife and Wiley Parton, the shooter, and the serious injury of at least three others. Twenty-five persons were involved in the battle, and at least 150 shots were fired.

When Marshal Bowlin and Parton opened fire on each other, Mrs. Bowlin sprang in front of her husband. Shot twice, she fell dead. The shooting appeared then to become general. When the marshal's wife was shot, the dead, shot through the chest, and friends were seen bearing away his wounded father, Wesley, father of local fame.

Al Butcher, who supported the marshal, had a bullet hole in his neck, and may die, while Al Bowlin, brother of the marshal, had been clubbed on the head with a revolver.

Starts on Final Campaign in Ohio

WASHINGTON, May 12.—President Taft left Washington at 4:10 p. m. today for Marietta, Ohio, where tomorrow morning he will begin a final campaign of speech making in his home state before the presidential primaries there May 21.

Although none of the speeches which Mr. Taft will make on his 10-day tour were completed when he left the capital, data for many of them was taken along. Final conferences with leaders in Washington developed that the president probably will attack Colonel Roosevelt along new lines. It was said Mr. Roosevelt's position in the United States Steel corporation's absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company would be one of the criticisms by Mr. Taft.

Close friends of Mr. Taft do not conceal their interest in his Ohio trip. On the result of the primaries there, some of them believe, may depend the future course of the president in his fight for renomination. Mr. Taft was told last week that he must spend more than a week in Ohio in active campaigning.

The president's tour will be one of the hardest he has yet made. Sixty-three speeches already are scheduled and he will have an opportunity to rest during the 10 days only on Thursday in Cleveland and next Sunday, when he will be the guest of his brother, U. S. Taft, in Cincinnati.

Mr. Taft will campaign up to the night before the primaries, making his last speech in Dayton, May 29. He will vote the next day in Cincinnati and depart for Washington that afternoon.

SOCIALIST NATIONAL CONVENTION OPENED

INDIANAPOLIS, May 12.—With 250 delegates, the Socialist national convention was organized here today. The convention will formulate its platform on Wednesday and Thursday and on Friday will nominate candidates for president and vice president of the United States. One of the most important questions to be determined is the formal attitude of the party toward the Industrial Workers of the World.

Conservative Socialists will demand that the convention go on record as denouncing the methods of the Industrial Workers, said congressman Berger of Wisconsin, a member of the executive committee. "Ten to one, the delegates are opposed to direct action and other violent principles of the Industrial Workers. The Socialist party cannot afford to continue to be embroiled with this riotous organization. There has been too much of this on the Pacific coast and elsewhere."

Morris Hillquit, of New York, who was elected chairman for the day, told the convention that since the party was formed in Indianapolis 11 years ago, it had grown from 10,000 members paying dues to 150,000, and that the voting strength had increased from 100,000 to 600,000.

Eugene V. Debs is named as the preference of most of the delegates for the head of the ticket. He has been the party's candidate for president in every election since 1900.

FLOODS SUBSIDING

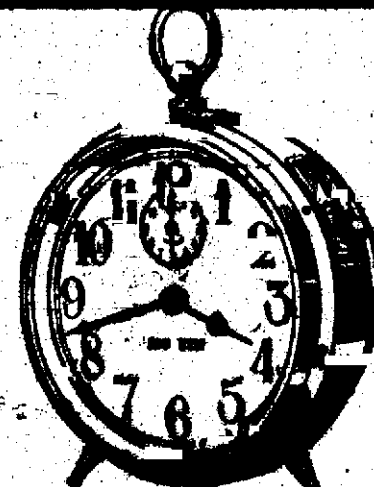

NEW ORLEANS, May 12.—Another day of sunshine here and throughout southern Louisiana afforded an improved aspect to flood conditions. State and federal engineers announced that the few reports received from points north of here were encouraging, although the situation at Baton Rouge would demand continued alert work to prevent a break in the front levee.

A fall of two-tenths of a foot here was recorded at 7 o'clock tonight, the gauge registering 21.3. At Baton Rouge there was a rise of nearly a tenth. The levee at the lower end of the Torras crevasse is reported sloughing off and gradually adding to the width of the gap.

BATON ROUGE, La., May 12.—Water from the Torras crevasse could be seen from the capitol tonight. Backed up from the Atchafalaya swamp lands, it had almost reached Port Allen across the river. The water began to cover the sugar plantations north of Chamberlain, and tonight several rice plantations that line the west bank of the Mississippi are inundated.

$25,000 GOES TO TIGER FOOTBALL CHAMPIONS

PRINCETON, N. J., May 12.—Cyrus H. McCormick, member of the board of trustees of Princeton university and an alumnus of Princeton, has given $25,000 to the Champion Tiger football eleven of last fall.

The money is to be used at the discretion of the team, but the donor suggests that $5,000 of the amount be used in erecting a gateway to University field to take the place of "Old Thompson gateway," which is the present entrance to the field.

The remaining $20,000 will most likely be used as part of a fund to build a stadium. McCormick has a son in Princeton who played in the Harvard game for a while last fall.

NO DEVELOPMENTS IN PENN. COAL CAMPS

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.—There were no developments of any kind in the hard coal region today. It seems to be the consensus of opinion among the mine officials in the upper hard coal fields that the delegates who will attend the conference at Wilkes Barre on Tuesday will vote to sustain the terms of settlement as negotiated by the national and district presidents.

In the Schuylkill region, it is said, the foreign locals are about equally divided on the ratification of the agreement, but the American miners strongly favor the peace terms.

MORONK CONFERENCE MEETS WEDNESDAY

MORONK LAKE, N. V., May 12.—The Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration is to assemble here next Wednesday and will remain in session until Friday evening.

Among the speakers from abroad will be Dr. Christian L. Lange, secretary of the interparliamentary union, and Dr. Otfried Nippold of Germany, professor of international law in Berlin university, who will speak on the "Third Hague Conference."

I. T. U. VOTES AGAINST A SYMPATHETIC STRIKE

CHICAGO, May 12.—By a vote of 1,099 to 645, members of the Typographical union today voted not to go on strike in sympathy with the pressmen who now are out in all Chicago daily newspaper offices.

James M. Lynch, international president of the Typographical union, and Walter W. Barrett, president of the Chicago local, expressed themselves as well pleased with the result. From the beginning of the agitation for a strike they urged the printers not to take such a step. Then insisted that the present contract with the publishers was binding, and could not be broken.

The pressmen were downcast over the failure of the Typographical union to join them.

MISSOURI-PACIFIC MAIL TRAIN DITCHED

ST. LOUIS, May 12.—Missouri-Pacific mail train No. 1, which left here this morning at 9 o'clock was derailed near Elish, Mo., 60 miles west. John Linaberry, engineer of Sedalia, Mo., was pinned under the engine and killed. The preservation car was the only one which remained on the rails, the engine and other cars rolling down an embankment. Several passengers were slightly injured but none seriously.

UTAH WILL HOLD STATE CONVENTIONS THIS WEEK

SALT LAKE CITY, May 12.—State conventions will be held by both Democrats and Republicans of Utah this week to select delegates to the national conventions. The Democratic convention will be held here Tuesday. The Republicans will meet in Provo Wednesday.

The general impression is that a Taft delegation will be sent to Chicago. Many of the delegates to the state convention, however, are in favor of an un instructed delegation. The Democrats are about evenly divided between Champ Clark and Woodrow Wilson. Wilson seems to be the stronger. Utah has eight delegates to the Democratic national convention but as a compromise it is understood that 16 delegates with a half vote each will be sent, divided between Clark and Wilson.

BANDITS BLOW SAFE

ST. LOUIS, May 13.—Bandits blew the safe of the postoffice at Clayton, county seat of St. Louis county, at an early hour this morning. Messengers were sent in search of Postmaster Grant Deusel. The loss could not be ascertained until he arrived.

TERMS FOR LOAN TO CHINESE GOVERNMENT

PEKIN, May 12.—The ministers of finance and bankers representing the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia and Japan, have arranged the terms of advances to the Chinese government totaling $50,000,000 against treasury bills redeemable within one year.

There will be supervision over the expenditures jointly by foreign and Chinese auditors. If the scheme is approved by President Yuan Shi Kai and the national council, it will be regarded as a defeat of Premier Tan Shao Yi, who personally has been opposing it.

It has been pointed out by those identified with the scheme that the country is a veritable powder magazine and that the unpaid soldiers threaten an outbreak which can only be avoided by payment of their wages.

WOMEN DRIVE ALONE NOW

From the Chicago Tribune. Ideas of propriety and convention in Paris have shifted noticeably in recent years, largely as a result of the habits of the thousands of travelers. It is no longer unusual to see women drive unaccompanied through the Bois de Boulogne, or to attend the theaters. Formerly unaccompanied trips were not considered, save to the shops, the galleries, or the cathedrals.

BAITING THE CANDIDATES

THE present situation in the Republican party is unfortunate. The injection of the personal element into the campaign can do no good and it has already done harm. The newspapers supporting Taft have ascribed the situation entirely to the vigorous and emphatic campaign of the ex-president. This is a mistake.

The fact is that the campaign managers of the two candidates are principally to blame for the situation. And Representative McKinley is more guilty than Senator Dixon. If Senator Dixon has been impudent in his challenges, Representative McKinley has been venomous in his attacks on the Colonel.

Manager McKinley of the Taft campaign Bureau has quite exhausted the vocabulary of derisive political epithets and appellations in his effort to find some phase that would adequately express his low opinion of Theodore Roosevelt. Among the expressions in the official publications of the Taft campaign bureau are the following: Theodore Roosevelt is a "supreme egoist," a "political chameleon," an "arch-demagogue," an "arch-traitor to the institutions of the country and to the truth," Representative McKinley charges that Roosevelt is guilty of "corruption" and "attempted if not actual bribery," he is supported by an "alliance of crooked business and crooked politics" in his campaign "no work or deed has been too mendacious or mean," his "manifest purpose is to wreck the party which gave him his opportunity to rise."

These are expressions given out for public consumption by an official bureau. If Mr. McKinley has additional epithets on file it is to be hoped that he will not use them. More extreme phrases could only be appropriately printed in third class, asbestos paper.

Roosevelt's provocation to make his campaign one of personalities has been great. It is to his credit that, although his attacks on the administration have been vigorous, he has not gone to the extremes of those who have attacked him.

It appears certain that the climax of the personal campaign has been reached and passed. Neither candidate is dignified when using his abilities to match the names called by the other candidate, or by the agents of the other candidate. This fact must be evident to the most partisan supporter of either one.

TRUST BUSTING AND THE ULTIMATE CONSUMER

SCHEDULE K of "the best tariff bill ever passed" has drawn regarding to the directions and for the benefit of the woolen manufacturers. The ultimate consumer is "the goat." Certain members of Congress, among them Henry Cabot Lodge, asserted that "the ultimate consumer" is a myth. However, he is a myth real enough to pay actual dollars for the products of the American Woolen Company. The ultimate consumer is a real, not an imaginary, goat with a real, not imaginary, appetite for woolsens.

The effects of the Standard Oil and American Tobacco trust prosecutions should make the ultimate consumer feel entirely natural and "at home." He is again the goat. President Taft is very much satisfied with the outcome of those prosecutions. In his Columbus speech last week he expressed his contentment with the result. Who can object when the ultimate consumer, who is, after all, only a myth, suffers?

"They say oil has gone up, and they say the stock of these constituent companies has gone up," said Mr. Taft. "It is true that they have gone up, and why? Because, in the dissolution of the facts had to come out, and the stockholders who were holding stock down low had to reveal to the public generally that it had a great deal more money in those companies than the public had known. Secondly, they say that oil has gone up, and why? Now, because competition has come about, crude oil has gone up and price of oil generally has gone up."

"Then, about the Tobacco business," they say, "that doesn't seem to be a myth. Well, what is the effect of it?"

Why, burley tobacco has gone up under the competition that have come in there."

Don't you see, dear ultimate consumer? The beneficial effects of the Standard Oil and Tobacco decrees are as clear as sophistry can make them. The demonstration is so simple as to be evident even to you who are subject to "momentary gusts of popular passion."

The only one who suffers is yourself, and as you are only a myth, no one suffers and the higher prices that you pay (only in imagination) greatly benefit the remainder of the community.

ROOSEVELT'S FAIRNESS.
From the New York Evening Post.
It would be unfair to question Mr. Roosevelt's motives in announcing, as he did so promptly yesterday, that he did not want the eight delegates-at-large of Massachusetts. Elected by a ballot mistake, and in opposition to the clearly expressed preference of the majority, he declares that they ought to vote in the convention for Mr. Taft, and that he will strongly urge them to do so. This is one of those square and manly actions in political life which everybody must admire, and which should not be meanly criticised. It is in line with the early tradition about the character of the ideal Roosevelt, which he has unfortunately done so much since to shatter. For our part, we give him no more than business ungrudging praise, and shall not join with those who are intimating that it was all a trick, designed in the first place to affect public opinion and then to make sure of 20 or 30 delegates in Oregon and Illinois in return for the eight handed to Taft in Massachusetts. We prefer to regard it as simply one of those instant and instinctive decisions by Roosevelt, at once expressing his sense of the right thing to do and hitting the sentiment of the people between wind and water, for which he has always been noted. That it was adroit politics does not alter the fact that it was handsome and honorable.

SCARING US ABOUT THE ARMY

From the Washington Herald.
It comes as a shock to us to be told by those in high military places and with great responsibility, that, despite all the outward signs to the contrary, the United States has no army. We have a matter of 85,000 men enlisted in the service, but those, General Wood says, are not soldiers, but are landscape gardeners, path cleaners, and housekeepers attached to military posts. Instead of doing military duty, the great majority of these men are detailed to do the manual work of the posts when they should be learning the art of war and becoming first-class fighting men.

All of this, we are told, is the result of certain regulations imposed by Congress on the military branch of the service, and that the economy which prompts it is due to the cause of the efficiency on the part of the men to whom the nation must look for defense in time of war. It took the managers down in Texas last summer to make the war department quite sure of what it had long guessed. Recent time was made in getting men, horses, and big guns from every post no matter how far separated, or at what distance from the point of rendezvous. Within eight days from the time when the orders, backed in secrecy were suddenly sprung upon the officials, we had a whole unit gathered together for the first time in a long while, and everyone was pleased with the despatch and readiness which it showed.

Then there were demonstrations of how the old art of tactics and reconnoiter were supported by the firing machines, and, best of all, by the field wireless. When everyone got over wondering what it was all about, the evolutions and developments attracted the greatest interest and were closely followed by all at home. Now we are told that the men who went down there so expeditiously were not soldiers at all from a professional standpoint. They were men, but not the sort of men to whom this country should trust itself for defense and protection. They are little better than the militia, so far as field service and dependability go. We have admitted the army which can build the Panama canal. We have been proud of the army which led the lower courses of the Mississippi river, Cuba, and the Canal Zone of their infectious diseases, and which proved itself a "miser of sanitation and hygiene." We have been pleased that it was the army that demonstrated to the world of soldiers that incineration is a sure preventive against typhoid fever. But it appears that this is constructive work, while the army is, of course, a destructive agency, and that as a force, it is destructive to the peace of the United States.

We have heard there is something in this of the personal element that "Lodge" and "Kitchener" so dearly desire to inquire in the offices of Downing street, and that it is a sort of rhetorical or figurative use of words sufficiently strong to cause Congress to sanction the plans of organization that are afoot. We begin to suspect that it is rather a question of a sudden rise in the ideals and standards of the heads of the department than a sudden and marked deterioration on the part of the boys in khaki, who have on several occasions given an account of themselves that all have been glad to hear and pleased to tell about.

WHEN THE TITANIC WENT DOWN

From the Albany Times-Union.
When the Titanic sank the whole world gasped. The Titanic made us all see for an instant what we had been blind to.

The Titanic made us see that the multi-millionaire in the suite-de-luxe and the stoker in the fire-hole are the same class. Death is the end of each. The beautiful woman who traveled in the suite-de-luxe paid as much for her five days of luxurious travel as one of the bright-eyed immigrant girls in the steerage would be able to earn in 10 long years of hard work. Death to each was bitter.

While the ship was on its way, and the doors were closed between the first and the second and the third classes, there were a lot of things that seemed to break and chief of these seemed to be the ability to pay.

Then death battered down the steel doors of the steerage and tossed the steel jungles of the first cabin—the world was equal.

Death had stalked in upon those who had come to sea in the newest, greatest, most luxurious ship—stalked in upon those who were on board for pleasure and upon those who had been urged "driven" from native land by the hope of more bread and less sweat in the new world.

Then some sixteen hundred people—rich and poor—were caught in a death trap and drowned like rats.

The world shuddered.
Daniel Guggenheim, whose brother was drowned, said: "These 1,500 lives is a frightful price to pay for safety on the sea. It is a frightful crime."

And that is true. The ship had luxury without lifeboats. The luxuries were for the first cabin, but the lifeboats were for all.

Daniel Guggenheim is the head of the Smelter trust and one of the world's great mine owners. In the coal mine of the United States alone last year more than twice as many lives were lost as on the Titanic.

The world gasps at the Titanic, and yet it is the same sort of death that 84 miners suffered at Jedd, W. Va., that 150 miners met at Bryceland, Tenn., that overtook 230 miners at Jacobs Creek, in Pennsylvania, and 265 at Cherry, Ill. Shall we say that the fate met by those upon the ocean was less horrible for each individual than that of 146 girls entrapped in the Triangle shirtwaist factory, in New York, or less horrible than the burning to death of 600 in the Iroquois theater in Chicago?

Equal in the hour of death, shall we not be equal in the hours of life?

If this is to be the truth pressed home by the Titanic, ner people will not have died in vain. If pleasure seekers of wealth and leisure realize that they are not to ride on upper decks in utter disregard of the privation of the steerage and the pains of the stoker, then perhaps the sinking of the Titanic may mark a turning point in the race of a money-mad people.

Cost of Living

By WALT MASON.

Granddad wore his whiskers till they hid his eyes; in that, he had a robin used to build its nest. Granddad, in the springtime, sat upon a chair; grandma, with her scissors, pruned his flowing hair. That was in the golden time of long ago, when the waste of money meant a store of wool. That was in the happy, good old, frugal times, when our sires far-seeing, salted down the dimes. Father seeks the barber when he's run to hair, stretches out in comfort in a padded chair; while the smiling artist through his glass hews, energetic toothbrushes, decorate his shoes, and the manicurist monkeys with his hand—all these vain proceedings, yet to beat the band. Granddad saved and sweated all his days on earth, when he made a finish, how much was he worth? He had 50 acres—quite a farm, you say, and some hundred dollars safely tucked away. Father spends his money like a soured marine, such a dazzling spendthrift never yet was seen. Well, he can afford to blow in money with zest; he owns banks and buildings till you cannot rest. Where's the helpful moral of this tale of money? Hunt it with a lantern—guess there isn't one.

Two Ways of Using Money

By RUTH CAMERON.

Two young women in my acquaintance are earning about the same salaries, but they use their money in very different ways.

One of them spends as little as possible on her daily needs. She walks to save car fares; she eats at cheap places; she denies herself any amusement which costs anything; she thinks twice before she spends a quarter; she is always saying she cannot afford this or that little thing. Father spends his money like a soured marine, such a dazzling spendthrift never yet was seen. Well, he can afford to blow in money with zest; he owns banks and buildings till you cannot rest. Where's the helpful moral of this tale of money? Hunt it with a lantern—guess there isn't one.

The other girl always has plenty of money for little things. She goes to the theater or to some lecture almost every week; she gratifies her love for pleasant surroundings by eating in one of the most attractive restaurants in town, despite her father's horrified protest. The everything costs her 10 cents more there. She never thinks about car fare or about a quarter, but she always says: "Isn't it strange that Lucy doesn't have more to show for her money with the good salary she has?"

Now, this point of view is so familiar as to be a truism, but there are times when I quarrel with it. May I recall to your mind a sentence which I think I have quoted before? "The right use of money is to accomplish what you wish with it."

Presumably both these girls want the largest amount of happiness possible for their money. The question is, which gets it? The first girl is always tied down to thoughts of money. Spending a quarter bothers her. She scruples herself and denies herself to save a dime. She gets big things for her money, and is proud of it and boasts of it, but it is worth while? If some of her money which she put into that mahogany dresser she scrimped for it six months—had been distributed over that six months as all to make the machinery of her daily living run more smoothly, wouldn't she have been happier on the whole?

The second girl never thinks of money. She allows herself plenty to off the machinery of daily life and she gets as much as she can out of the rest, and is content. To be sure, she has an oak bureau in her room instead of a mahogany dresser, but I wonder if her peace of mind and her freedom from money worry do not make the balance pretty nearly even.

Now please do not think I am advising you to spend all your money on little things. I am not advising any extravagance. I'm just trying to get the opposite point of view from the conventional one.

It is good to get the full value of your hard-earned money, but in trying to do that, do not forget that peace of mind and freedom from money worry are some of the precious things of life, as well as costly furs and mahogany dressers.

Remember that there is such a thing as thinking too constantly of saving money and consequently chaining yourself down to continuous thoughts of money. To my mind, nothing but duty or necessity can make that thing worth.

ARE LATE MARRIAGES HAPPY?

(Copyrighted, 1912, by Laura Jean Libbey.)

If there was ever a wide field for fact and fancy to play a dodging game with each other it is in the broad area of speculation as to whether marriages entered into late in life are happy ones.

It is generally supposed that youthful love, which leads to early marriage, possesses all the requirements for happiness. It is so easy to bend the twig while they are young. Men and women who have lived single lives, having been responsible to no one as to their coming and going, with no one to give an account to regarding their finances, no home to maintain, no hearts to make happy or to break, are brought to a sudden end of their care-free existence when they fall in love and marry after they have reached the shady side of 40.

The man finds that his bride has a will of her own and fixed notions upon most all subjects of life. There are some women who exhibit this trait quite as soon as they turn from the altar. Then there are other women too diplomatic to express all that they think when their ideas differ widely from their husbands'. Undoubtedly their complacency are the immovable notions.

The man who has seen the world and knocked around in it a bit cannot change his fixed habits of a lifetime at will, unless he marries a girl in her teens. Even then he makes a sorry mess of it usually. He cannot understand why a wife should object to his going to the club seven nights out of the week. He hasn't missed bowling for 20 years. He doesn't see why marriage should interfere with it. He is not slow to let her know that he didn't marry to have a keeper who would restrain his liberty. She has found enjoyment alone for a good many years; he cannot understand why she will not get along without company now.

There are men and women who have met late in life, looked at each other, and who have had cause to regret it. It is two lives that have been led in their ways for many years. It isn't the man's age but his ways—which should be taken account of.

ANSWERS

SHE'S ENGAGED

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am going with a young man of about 23 and he claims he loves me and also wants me to get married to him, although I haven't the ring. Is it right for me to go out with another friend, seeing I haven't received the ring so far?"

If you are engaged to the man do not go about with other men.

TRIED TO KISS THEM

"Dear Miss Libbey: We are two wealthy girls of about 18, attending a fashionable boarding school. We were auto riding with two young boys whom we think a great deal of. They both attempted to kiss us while the chaperon left the machine for a few minutes. Upon the refusal of both of us the girls boys were offended and are still angry. As we care a great deal for these boys we do not care to lose their friendship. Please tell us what to do to remedy this?"

Don't pay any attention to them. They are certainly rude young persons. Their friendship doesn't matter much.

WARTS MAKE HER SICK

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 20, holding a splendid position in a large retail estate office, and I have been engaged for two years to a perfectly dear fellow who works in the retail grocery profession and until now I have been so happy, but recently a great sadness has come into my life, for his hands are all breaking out with warts, and while I am afraid of them, I also know that he has not changed in any other way, still I can't help feeling awful when I look at his hands, and please tell me what to do about this terrible grief that has saddened me so. I am a girl of 20, and I am nervous. Would it be wrong for me to break the engagement and tell him right out that that warts make me sick?"

Have the young man write to Lillian Russell for a wart-cure and the trouble of which you complain will soon be well rid of.

SHE'S "RATHER FUSSED"

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am rather fussed about a small affair. I am engaged to a nice young man, who, of course, gave me an engagement ring when he proposed. He has hinted several times that this ring was valuable, and that he would like to have it. I have an uncle who is a jeweler, and just by chance I asked him what the ring was worth. He said, much to my surprise, that it was worth about $2.50 and the diamond was a shamsonee. Do you think I ought to tell my fiance that I know that it is only a cheap ring, or shall I keep quiet?"

It makes me cross, because he has lots of money and could easily afford to pay more. Some people say he is an awful tightwad, but of course he isn't any such a thing.

The fellow isn't very reliable, is he? Better tell him the next time you are with him that your uncle is a jeweler and that you are going to have him clean the ring, and that you want him to look at the stone to be sure that it is properly set if it is so valuable.

THE HASKIN LETTER

CARIBBEAN POLITICS

XIII—THE NICARAGUAN TREATY

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 27.—Just how the people of Nicaragua are much interested in the outcome of the consideration of the Nicaraguan treaty in the United States senate. The Nicaraguan people, after the end of the Zelaya regime, found themselves in such a financial situation that they could not meet the interest on their bonds. They had defaulted on the interest on their foreign loans and innumerable internal and external claims against the government were brought up. In this situation they were absolutely unable to meet their obligations without outside help. They might patronize the money-lenders, but the money in collected were so great that the money-lenders would not advance more money except at the most usurious rates—rates which would have made it even more impossible to meet their interest charges in the future than it was to meet them then.

Likewise, the currency problem had grown to proportions which made it almost hopeless. In years gone by, one dollar of Nicaraguan money was worth about nineteen cents American. Gradually the financial condition of the country grew worse and worse until a dollar Nicaraguan was worth only a little more than four cents. People who owed debts, based on former rates of exchange, could force their creditors to take a dollar worth four cents in order to satisfy a debt which had been contracted upon the basis of a dollar worth up to nineteen cents.

Appeals to United States.
Having no other way to escape from a situation that could mean little else than continued revolution and constant danger of outside pressure, Nicaragua threw itself upon the mercies of the United States and agreed that it would be willing to give to the United States practical control of the customs houses of the country, if Uncle Sam in turn would administer them after the manner of the customs administration in Santo Domingo.

The treaty agreed to by Nicaragua is even more simple in character than that with Santo Domingo. After a revivification of the facts of the country's plight, telling of the 17 years of administrative abuses, involving illegal diversion of public property and reckless accumulation of debts and claims, and the existence of ruinous and disputed concessions, Nicaragua declared its willingness to enter into a convention with the United States, providing for the refunding of its debts, the adjustment and settlement of claims against it, and the placing of its finances upon a sound and stable basis. It agreed that the loan and the negotiated should be secured by the customs revenues of Nicaragua, and that it would not alter the entry, exit or other charges affecting the country, except by mutual agreement during the existence of the loan without consultation and agreement with the United States. It also agreed that during the term of the loan a collector general of customs, similar to the one in Santo Domingo, should be appointed subject to the approval of the president of the United States and that he should have the full protection of both governments in the discharge of his duties.

After a revivification of the facts of the country's plight, telling of the 17 years of administrative abuses, involving illegal diversion of public property and reckless accumulation of debts and claims, and the existence of ruinous and disputed concessions, Nicaragua declared its willingness to enter into a convention with the United States, providing for the refunding of its debts, the adjustment and settlement of claims against it, and the placing of its finances upon a sound and stable basis. It agreed that the loan and the negotiated should be secured by the customs revenues of Nicaragua, and that it would not alter the entry, exit or other charges affecting the country, except by mutual agreement during the existence of the loan without consultation and agreement with the United States. It also agreed that during the term of the loan a collector general of customs, similar to the one in Santo Domingo, should be appointed subject to the approval of the president of the United States and that he should have the full protection of both governments in the discharge of his duties.

Having no other way to escape from a situation that could mean little else than continued revolution and constant danger of outside pressure, Nicaragua threw itself upon the mercies of the United States and agreed that it would be willing to give to the United States practical control of the customs houses of the country, if Uncle Sam in turn would administer them after the manner of the customs administration in Santo Domingo.

SPEAKS FROM PULPIT HE OCCUPIED 36 YEARS AGO

The Rev. R. T. Cross, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in this city from 1876 to 1881, delivered a sermon at the church yesterday morning on the subject "Time as a Multiplier."

He spoke at the Second Presbyterian church last night on "Mourning and Giving Moral Lessons."

Dr. Cross lived in Colorado Springs for five years, and after leaving his pastorate at the First Presbyterian church here, went to Denver where he was pastor of the Second Presbyterian church for about six years. Leaving Denver he lived in St. Louis, Mo., and then in New York where he held a pastorate for almost 10 years. When his wife died in New York he returned to Colorado and lived here for a second time. He has lived in Colorado for 36 years.

More than 11,000 of the 50,000 passengers in use on the railroads of the United States are now electrically lighted.

Rosy as a Girl
Mrs. J. W. Church, of the city, says: "My wife had been sick for nearly 12 years, from rheumatism, and at times, was unable to leave the house. She suffered with her side and back. We had physicians for years, without result. After these treatments all failed, she took Cardui, and gained in weight and strength. Now she is red and rosy as a school girl. Cardui, as a tonic for women has brought remarkable results. It relieves pain and misery and is a great tonic for young and old. At druggists."

H. J. Heinz of Worldwide Pickle Fame, Will Be in Colo. Springs Wednesday

H. J. Heinz of worldwide pickle fame will be in Colorado Springs next Wednesday, the guest of the executive committee of 50 in charge of the state Sunday school convention here, June 18-20.

Mr. Heinz will arrive over the Denver & Rio Grande at 11:30 a. m., and at 12:30 o'clock he will speak to the business men of the city at a luncheon at the Alamo hotel. His subject will be "The Future of the Sunday School." He will also talk briefly on Sunday school work, in which he is deeply interested. During the afternoon, Mr. Heinz and C. B. Lauterman, who are in charge of the plans for Mr. Heinz's visit, will take him for a ride over some of the scenic drives in the Pikes Peak region. It is probable that he will leave for Denver late Wednesday afternoon, although he may remain until Thursday morning.

Mr. Heinz is taking a vacation and is touring the west in his special car, also doing all in his power to further Sunday school work. It is probable that he will be asked to assist in the preparations for the state Sunday school convention here in June.

All business men in Colorado Springs wishing to hear Mr. Heinz speak are requested to notify either Mr. Kohler or Mr. Lauterman as soon as possible.

DR. MCCONNELL TALKS ON THE PSYCHOLOGY OF SIN

Down Hill in the Psychology of Sin was the subject of Dr. Lincoln McConnell's address before a men's mass meeting at the Opera house yesterday afternoon.

Dr. McConnell used as the basis of his remarks the parable of the prodigal son. He pointed out that no young man starts down the road to sin without first thinking sin—that by allowing his mind to dwell upon sin, one comes to deal in it. His address was illustrated by many personal experiences accumulated during Dr. McConnell's service as a detective and attorney.

Of all the causes that lead men down hill the speaker gave prominence to impure minds and thoughts—the allowing of the lower nature to gain control of the intellectual. No other agent more quickly leads men to wrong, morally and spiritually he declared.

To turn toward the upward life from the ways of sin one must give the mind a chance to formulate its purpose, then take a forward step. The only reason the Bible mentions going to men who had sunk to feeding swine, was because this man, at the hub of his fortune, turned his thoughts toward something better.

Thoughts of home and childhood days turn many men to Christ; he declared. Inspiring them to higher ideals, higher thoughts and cleaner lives. Dr. McConnell told how Henry Grady, the noted orator of Reconstruction days, was led to a Christian life when while resting from a strenuous campaign at his childhood home, his mother and he made believe that he was a 6-year-old boy again.

Dr. McConnell closed with a personal appeal for a turning to the higher life. A large audience heard the lecturer despite the weather. Mr. O. Barnes gave a violin solo and Mrs. H. H. Seldridge sang. Mr. Barnes playing the organ. Walter Manning had charge of the song service. The Y. M. C. A. orchestra played several numbers.

Dr. McConnell will lecture at the First Presbyterian church tonight on "Dead Lions."

MOTHERS DAY OBSERVED

Millions of people, not only in every city and town in the United States, but in thousands of communities throughout the world yesterday observed Mothers day, and the highest tributes were paid to motherhood. From the big cities in this country, where Mothers day originated, to the smallest towns in Japan and China, men wore the little carnation in their buttonhole as a tribute of respect and love to their mothers. In churches throughout the world the ministers preached on the subject of motherhood. In Colorado, a little blue button bearing a white carnation, devised by the Denver Mothers congress, was especially emblematic of the day. The buttons were sold in practically every town and city in the state, and the proceeds will be used to form girls circles as auxiliary to the congress. In the churches in Colorado Springs the pastors either preached special sermons on motherhood or set aside a short time as one of the services, to talk briefly on the subject.

CHILDREN'S WARD WILL REALIZE ABOUT $1,600 FROM RECENT KIRMESS

The children's ward at Bethel hospital will be richer by approximately $1,600 as a result of a kirmess given at the Burns Friday night and Saturday afternoon. All of the accounts and money had not been submitted last night to Mrs. James F. Burns and Mrs. Dan Dillon, assistant ladies in charge of the affair, and consequently no definite figures could be obtained but these ladies and others intimately acquainted with the seat sale and cost of staging the performance estimated the net profit at $1,600. The amount will not be known until this afternoon.

The kirmess which was given by Colorado Springs and Denver pupils of Mrs. Frank Smith was even a greater success than was expected, both as to the merits of the production and financially, and the society ladies here who spent so much of their time in planning for its presentation are more than satisfied.

The money realized from the kirmess will go to the children's ward at Bethel hospital, a department recently organized to take care of the orphans of the Pikes Peak region. The management of the hospital has done everything in its power to make this department a success and several weeks ago when it was found that the children should be out of doors more the work of erecting a pavilion at a cost of $3,500 was commenced.

However the children's ward funds began to run low and the society ladies in Colorado Springs hit upon the plan of giving a kirmess to replenish them. At an entertainment recently given in Loggess theater at Colorado college a neat little sum was realized for the ward and after the performance a man a stranger in the city, sent a check for $20 to the authorities, saying he wished to help the work along.

The cost of maintaining the ward is $1 a bed a day. Several weeks ago a number of young ladies in this city formed a club and offered to keep one bed for one year and it is hoped that others will follow their example.

Fun and frolic but plenty of philosophy in Dr. McConnell's lecture "Dead Lions" tonight 8 p. m. First Presbyterian church.

CONTEMPORARY SOCIETY HOLDS FUNCTION TONIGHT

The annual social function of the Contemporary society of Colorado college will be given at the Antlers this evening at 7 o'clock. An informal reception will be held in the drawing room. Those in the evening line will be Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Sloan, Miss Margaret Sherman, president of the society, Miss Leona and Miss Marion Yeakes. Dinner will be served at small tables in the private dining rooms. Decorations will be in the society colors, red and white, and the flowers will be red gladioli. The guests of honor will be Professor and Mrs. Albert Bushnell Hall of Harvard university. After dinner a musical program will be given in the drawing rooms at which Frank Farmer, tenor, and Albert Adams, pianist, both of Denver, will appear.

EMBOSSSED TILE MADE TO ORDER

The lobby of the Auditorium hotel in Denver has lately been enlarged and be utilized, and this week the most beautiful tile work that has ever been done in the west is being completed in this lobby. The embossed green tile was made to order for this special job. This makes a very marked improvement in the Auditorium hotel.

NATIONAL CONSERVATION OF HEALTH IS DISCUSSED

Dr. Josephine Peavey spoke before the Socialists in Carpenter's hall, last night on "The National Conservation of Health."

Dr. Peavey first explained the Owen bill which is now before congress. This bill creates a department of public health and service, which are not working in unison as one department would. Dr. Peavey said this bill is meeting with much opposition, especially from the League for Medical Freedom.

This new department of health and public service will not interfere with individual or state rights, said Dr. Peavey. "There is absolutely no danger from such a bureau, as some would lead us to think, and the only time it would mix with the state rights is when the state authorities ask it to help control an epidemic."

Dr. Peavey then took up what the government has done to control disease, and discussed the many diseases arising in this country today, mostly due to economic conditions, lack of education and child labor. The country lacks reliable statistics concerning birth and death rates and it must get these before it can be on a par with other countries in national health.

In closing, Dr. Peavey spoke of the health bureau in Germany, England and other foreign countries. Just as they have nationalized their industries so have they nationalized their health and various other health measures. This is what the United States should do, and until it does, health conditions cannot be improved, said the doctor.

The League for Medical Freedom is the principal factor in the fight against the Owen bill and other health measures in the country, even to the employment of school nurses, as was shown here in Colorado Springs a short time ago. At the meeting last night, a number of the local members of the league were present, and all seemed greatly interested in Dr. Peavey's address.

Present Regime Not Affected by Recent Decision

The supreme court decision in the Denver elections case does not affect the status of present officials elected under city charters according to City Attorney McKesson. The decision takes control of the elections in Denver away from the elections commission. A separate case could have been filed to determine the standing of the elections provisions in the Colorado Springs Pueblo and Grand Junction charters, and it probably would be three years before the matter would reach the supreme court, he says.

The proposed amendment to the constitution to be voted on at the coming election, will settle once for all the questions left open by the supreme court decision, declared Attorney McKesson. "It is the determination of those back of the measure that elections in Colorado Springs be strictly nonpartisan."

ANNUAL REPORT FINDLEY OUT; OPERATED AT LOSS

President L. G. Carlton of Cripple Creek has just issued his annual report to the stockholders of the Findley Consolidated Mining company, showing the company to have operated at a loss of $2,189.90 during the last year. The net tons of ore shipped were 2,597.22 and the net proceeds, $19,376.76. The total receipts for the year were $19,376.08, and the total disbursements, $21,565.98.

During the year the company developed 1,331 feet of drifting and crosscutting and 300 feet of upraising, 120 feet of which was in ore. A promising ore body was opened on the twelfth level, but it extended only 100 feet upward, and as soon as it was exhausted the company abandoned operations underground. Negotiations for the sale of the low-grade dumps are under way.

The company recently organized a new corporation under the laws of Wyoming, transferring the entire property of the old company to the new one. The new company is capitalized at 2,000,000 shares, the par value being 25 cents, while the old one was capitalized at 1,500,000 shares, at a par value of 10 cents. The shares in the new company incorporated as the Findley Mines company will be issued only in a number equal to those outstanding in the old one so that the pro rata interest will be the same.

REV. FRANK HALE TOURET GIVES TALK ON PRAYER

The Rev. Frank Hale Touret spoke at the college vesper services yesterday on "Prayer," taking as his text, John 15: 5, "I am the vine and ye are the branches."

Quoting from Bishop Spalding he said "I lay down my life" but what is my life? Dr. Touret asked. "It is a fine thing to give if we have something to give. Unless the branches are in touch with the vine there is no life."

A man needs to know his God before he can serve his fellows, he declared. In every well-balanced life there is prayer and service, communion with God and service to men. Too many in these days have forgotten the former; have looked the door of prayer and forgotten where the key is hidden.

He urged the cultivation of the habit of being alone with God. The present day inquiry, "Is prayer worth while?" is made because men are asking about the question from the wrong angle, he said. The modern thought follows that of the child who declared that he would stop praying for three nights and see if anything happened. He declared that the modern trend takes no heed of human history, as throughout the history of the race prayer has appeared as an instinct—it betrays the unity of the race.

There is a new interest in religion today he asserted in which the soul is coming nearer to God—the father and the son are coming nearer together. A common complaint against Christianity is that it has been spreading out rather than taking root.

"Prayer is the soul's response to the presence of the eternal, man and his God has just come together—this is real prayer."

Laugh with Lincoln McConnell tonight at First Presbyterian church "Dead Lions" the theme, but it is not a dead lecture by any means.

CARIBBEAN POLITICS
XIII—THE NICARAGUAN TREATY
By Frederic J. Haskin

The forced loans and expropriations resulting from the activities of the oligarchs, yet, if the loan does not go through, its awards cannot be met by the government.

Would Build New Railroad
A part of the proposed $10,000,000 loan will be used for the building of a railroad from Lake Nicaragua to the east coast, either in the vicinity of Bluefields, Monkey Point or Rama. This railroad would open up a new transcontinental highway, traversing districts rich in mines and banana lands. An English syndicate, now operating a railroad on the Pacific slope, is anxious to build the Atlantic extension in order to secure control of the transcontinental connections but Nicaragua prefers to have the line built and controlled by American capital.

The reason the administration in Washington is so anxious that the Nicaraguan treaty shall be ratified is that it will give to the United States such a control over the affairs of this revolutionary republic that it will continue the endless procession of revolutions and counter revolutions. It is confidently asserted that the satisfaction of the customs receipts of the country from the spoils of war will make it next to impossible to evict the oligarchy. The war of opposition says that the treaty leads to the direction of foreign enterprises. They regard it as a sort of guarantee of loans made to these governments by the government of the United States. The friends of the measure on the other hand assert that the treaty will very much lessen the danger of foreign complications and that it will not entail any responsibilities on the part of the United States that are not now in existence.

Health Restored, Justice Campbell Back on Bench

Chief Justice John Campbell of the state supreme court, who has spent the last six months in California, convalescing from a nervous breakdown, returned to Denver yesterday. According to Mrs. Campbell, the chief justice is fully restored to health and will be ready to resume his seat on the bench today.

Justice Campbell spent the last two months at Pasadena, Cal., where he took frequent and long walks to the country. Soon after his arrival in California he sprained his ankle while bathing in the ocean and was confined to his room for more than a month.

The ankle no longer bothers him, the message states, and his health is better than it has been in many years. The associate members of the supreme court are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the chief justice to extend him a royal welcome to his chambers. His residence is in Colorado Springs.

Deaths and Funerals

DIES IN LOS ANGELES

Mrs. Sarah E. Opdycke, aged 76 of this city, died in Los Angeles, Cal., last Friday, according to word received here. Miss May Opdycke will accompany the body back to the old home in Genesee Ill. Mrs. Opdycke was the wife of the late Samuel J. Opdycke who for many years conducted a feed and grain business on Huertano street.

Personal Mention

Arthur M. Hill of the Hutchinson-Hill Land Sales company returned yesterday from a trip to Florida, where the company owns large land tracts.

H. S. Rogers, one of the oldest and best-known newspaper men in this city, returned yesterday from Illinois, where he had been visiting since November. He will remain in Colorado Springs this summer. Mr. Rogers was in charge of the publicity work of the Dry Farming congress here last fall. He was formerly city editor of the Chicago and later was city editor of the Denver Republican.
